NOTICE OF COMMUNITY MEETING

Tufts University and Tufts Medical Center's Institutional Biosafety Committee will hold an Open Meeting on Thursday, October 20, 2016 at 5:30pm. The meeting will be held at 150 Harrison Avenue, Behrakis Auditorium, Room 130 in Boston. The Institutional Biosafety Committee is responsible for ensuring that all research involving potentially biohazardous agents done at or sponsored by Tufts University or Tufts Medical Center is conducted in compliance with National Institutes of Health guidelines and with proper concern for the safety of research personnel, the environment, and the surrounding communities.

The Tufts University Institutional Biosafety Committee is based in Boston and regulates this research for the Tufts University Health Sciences Campus, Tufts University Medford/Somerville Campus, Human Nutrition Research Center on Aging, and Tufts Medical Center. Members of the community are encouraged to attend the open meeting to learn more about the Institutional Biosafety Committee and its regulatory functions and biosafety risk management.

* Please Note: Meeting attendees must have a form of photo identification to enter the building. ***
